[illegible] Prairie Fires

MITCHELL, Dak., April 4.—Nobody but a man who has stood before a prairie fire can realize its awful force and fury when driven by a fresh wind can appreciate its almost resistless force. The fires that have brought so much loss and suffering to southern Dakota in the last few days were practically irresistible. The flames in some instances leaped 100 feet of plowed ground and rushed away again on their career of destruction. All precautions were in vain. The spring has been very dry and much of the ground has been dusty and bare, and then extremely high wind prevailed during the fires.

Under these conditions, when the fire touched the grass it shot out with a roar almost like powder and shot away across the prairie like an arrow, its range ever widening. To extinguish it was out of course was out of the question. Plowing fire breaks was slow work and the high wind often drove the flames across them.

It was 3 o'clock in the afternoon yesterday when the people of Mount Vernon saw a wide spreading prairie north west of them break out into a blaze. Smoke was dashed into and through the town on the wings of the wind. The flames rushed after with a savage fury. Mitchell was telegraphed to for help and 100 firemen with a hook and ladder apparatus were sent. The entire population of Mount Vernon and the men from Mitchell met the flames on the outskirts of the town and fought them, but all to no purpose. The fire swept the town. One hundred families are left [illegible]. The loss to buildings is $30,000. Outside of the town it is impossible yet to say what the loss is. Little farm houses scattered over the prairie have been wiped out by the flames and stories of loss of life may come later.

YANKTON, Dak., 4.—Stories of the terrible losses from the hurricane of fire that has swept over the county north of here continue to come in. Viola village has only three buildings. Olivet, in Hutchinson county, was burned; Buckwanna was wiped out in Yankton county and almost twenty farmers have been turned out in the neighborhood. In the vicinity of Janesville, twelve miles north of Yankton, eight farmers have estimated losses running from $1000 to $5000 each. Janesville's loss will foot up $10,000. Sixty miles of telegraph line have been blown down between Centerville and Huron.

CHAMBERLAIN, Dak., April 4.—Prairie fires have been raging fearfully in this county for the past two days. So far two lives are reported lost and fully 100 families have been deprived of absolutely everything.

BURKE, Dak., April 4.—Stories of the fury of the fire continue to be brought into town by stragglers. They say the wind would gather up the loose tinder and hurling it high in the air carry it ahead of the surface fire, dropping it on farms and houses and igniting them. Fifty yards in advance of the main fire. Houses and barns were burned in Dixon where the fire was carried over miles of newly broken ground. The loss is estimated at $20,000 in this vicinity.

Damage by Wind.

MINNEAPOLIS, April 4.—During the last two days South Dakota and Minnesota have been swept by a series of wind storms which have caused millions of dollars worth of damage to property and several lives have been lost. The storm came on Monday night and swept over a wide area south of the Northern Pacific in Dakota extending into the southern counties of this state. The greatest damage has not been caused by wind, but in many places grass fires were driven into fury by the storms and [illegible] out of existence several small villages and hundreds of farm houses, rendering hundreds of families homeless. This was almost completely swept away Olivet, Pukwana, Lesterville, Mt. Vernon and three or four other villages are badly damaged. Many head of cattle, sheep and hogs have also perished. In many places the crops are covered by a loose sand and dust and will have to be replanted. Travel had to be suspended on some of the roads, so great was the force of the wind. The storm has abated somewhat, but the wind is still high enough to keep the fires burning fearfully and further heavy losses are expected. The losses in South Dakota are fully $2,000,000.

Doing Better.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., April 4.—The condition of Booth is much improved. He [illegible] shortly after he was visited by Dr [illegible] found him able to speak [illegible]. Booth breakfasted in bed [illegible] Dr Sumner was interviewed and said: "Booth is feeling a great deal better today. I did not consider his condition [illegible] last night alarming. I found he had suffered a slight shock of paralysis which affected his speaking. The paralysis was in the entire left side. It was [illegible] at first that the attack would prove fatal in a few minutes. His condition was indeed pitiful as he lay there in a [illegible] room looking appealingly at those around him and unable to speak a word. I think that with a rest of a few days [illegible] improvements. Last night's attack is a premonition of what may become. I think that within a [illegible] Booth will suffer a final attack."

Manager Arthur B. Chase, [illegible] said that the immediate cause of his attack was excessive smoking. Booth smokes twenty imported cigars a day and from [illegible] a pipe. I think he will [illegible] in the future." Booth's valet, who left this morning for New York, in reply to an inquiry from Detroit, he instructed Manager Chase to say that he would keep his engagement in that city week after next. [illegible] to fill all the Good News.

WASHINGTON, April 4.—No news has been received by the officers of the navy department up to half past 7 o'clock this evening in regard to the floating of the Nipsic at Samoa. A cablegram through the associated press that the vessel had been floated was received with a great deal of satisfaction by Secretary Tracy and the bureau officers of the navy department. "That's good news, that's good. I am glad to hear it," said Secretary Tracy. Commodore Walker, chief of the bureau of navigation, was also highly gratified at the intelligence. "That's a gain of one," said he, "if we can get her afloat and send her to Auckland to get repaired it will be doing very well. I am glad to hear she has been floated. The Nipsic is a good boat; a very good one of her kind." He did not think it likely that the Trenton or the Vandalia could be saved, as the dispatches indicated that they were too badly damaged.

The Emperor's Loss.

BERLIN, April 4.—An imperial order in relation to the loss of the officers and men belonging to the German navy by the recent hurricane at Apia has been issued. The emperor says that he laments that by God's will the officers and men stationed at Samoa, who in December staked their lives for the emperor and the empire, have lost their lives while on the faithful discharge of their duty. The emperor expresses his confidence in the navy, which has been so successfully developed. He says it will remain unshaken that devotion to duty displayed by those who published will serve as a bright example to the whole navy which in the future, as in the past, will work for the welfare and glory of the Fatherland.

Well Known Horse Arrested.

DENVER, April 4.—On receipt of a telegram of instructions from Superintendent Hubbard, of Chicago, the police to day arrested Barney Kinney and Andy Larkins, the well known men, and are detaining them at police headquarters to await the arrival of the Chicago officers. The arrest is something of a mystery, it being alleged that the prisoners are wanted in Illinois for stealing a string of valuable racing horses from Kentucky. The horses arrived here yesterday and were in possession of Kinney and Larkins when they were arrested. The animals are reported to be worth between $20,000 and $25,000. The prisoners refuse to talk.

Probable Favorable Answer.

WASHINGTON, April 4.—The secretary of state has been informed by the United states charge d'affaires ad interim in St. Petersburg that due action has been taken at the request of this government for the liberation of Hermann Kempinski, the American citizen who was arrested December 24 in Poland on the charge of having evaded military duty in Russia, of which country he was a native. There are features in this case that make it probable that a favorable answer may soon be returned by the Russian government.

A Sharp Move.

DETROIT, Mich., April 4.—Moller Bros., lumber men, owe Bard & Hornstein, of Buffalo, $15,000 which will soon fall due. Not being prepared to meet it they secretly collected a large gang of men and are loading the mill and machinery preparatory to taking the stuff to the Spanish river, Canada, where a site for reerection has been secured. To prevent interference by the authorities the telegraph wires have been cut.

A Big Syndicate.

ST. LOUIS, April 4.—It is announced today that a controlling interest in the Laclede Gas company has been purchased by a syndicate, composed of the Vanderbilts, August Belmont and Laird of the London firm of bankers. It is also stated that the syndicate will obtain a controlling interest in the gas trust here and combine all the properties under one organization with a capital of $12,000,000.

Bond Offerings Rejected.

WASHINGTON, April 4.—The action of Secretary Windom to day in rejecting $2,931,400 offerings of 4½ per cent bonds at 104½, 104¾ and 105 is regarded at the treasury department as indicating his purpose of not paying over 10% for these bonds for the present at least. It is believed his policy in the matter more definitely in a few days.

THE WARDEN VERDICT.

Continuation of the Trial of M. W. Warden for Murder.

Judge Campbell Instructs the Jury in the Law.

Able Pleas by Counsel for Defense and Prosecution.

A Verdict of Involuntary Manslaughter Returned.

When the district court took up the Warden case yesterday morning Mrs Cook, wife of Phillip Cook the murdered man, was called to the stand. Mrs Cook herself entered the case as far as she witnessed it and gave Cook's weight at 147 pounds. The witness was positive that at the time Cook and Warden had a dispute about the bill previous to the time of the shooting. Warden said in her presence he would not eat another —— meal in the house because the —— bill was wrong. Mrs Cook was quite positive that Cook was sober at the time of the shooting. Counsel for the defense did not cross-examine her.

Charles Fish of Buena Vista was next called to testify in rebuttal. The witness knew Cook about nine years and a half and said he always bore a good reputation for being peaceable and quiet. When cross-examined he said he never saw nor heard of anything bad about him. His testimony was weakened somewhat when the fact was developed that he had not lived continuously at Buena Vista for two years prior to the shooting.

W. L. Mason, an alderman of Buena Vista, knew Cook nine years and during that time knew him to be a quiet, inoffensive man who always bore a good reputation. Cross examination did not weaken his evidence.

Mr. Crawford of Buena Vista stated that he knew Cook ten years, during which time his reputation for peace was very good. Upon cross examination he said he had heard Cook spoken of several times and always in a complimentary manner.

Mr. Murray, a previous witness, was called and said he had known Cook's reputation to be of a good character. Cross-examined, he said he had heard him mentioned several times in a casual manner as a good, social man.

This witness ended the testimony introduced and the court, not having finished preparing the instructions for the jury, took an hour's recess until 10 45.

When the time had expired Judge Campbell addressed the jury. He instructed them in the various forms of killing and enjoined them to give the prisoner the benefit of every possible doubt as to whether the deed was done in self defense. The instructions, which embraced all the laws relating to the case, were quite lengthy.

The argument for the prosecution was opened by Mr. McCord, who opened his remarks by mentioning the unpleasant duty an attorney had to perform in summing up a case where a fellow creature's life was in danger. He gave a brief outline of the case up to the time McIntosh and Warden went into Cook's restaurant for dinner. He stated how Cook was there going about his regular calling and business and waited on McIntosh and the defendant, and how Cook and the old gentleman McIntosh, had been in the habit of joking and jesting every time they met. He described the conversation in regard to the bill and Cook's anxiety, how the regular charge for dinner was thirty five cents and Warden's having an extra dish costing probably ten cents which brought the bill up to about eighty cents. Any sensible man, he said, could see that Cook was jesting when he said the price was two dollars and a half. When the price had been twice stated, Warden began to take it up probably believing Cook to be in earnest, and said, according to the witnesses, "If you charge two dollars and a half for that meal you are a stinker and a ——." He here called attention to the fact that the witnesses were all separated and kept out of the court room and that their testimony agreed in regard to the remarks the defendant addressed to Cook, although some claimed they did not hear the latter part. Cook, he said, took the first insult as a joke, but when the insult was repeated, he advanced toward the defendant and made some remark, the exact language of which was not learned, but which was substantially "What is that you said?" Warden immediately struck him in the face with his fist and pulled a gun and struck him on the head, the defendant himself testifying that there were two blows on the head. By this time the two men had clinched and all the witnesses but the prisoner testified that Warden had his left arm around Cook's neck while he delivered the blows with his right. The prisoner was the only witness who testified that Cook had his hands at Warden's neck choking him, the other witnesses examined stating that Cook had the defendant around the waist. The defendant admits having pulled the trigger of his gun and firing the shot that cost Phillip Cook his life. In order to excuse him of the crime he must show that he did it in self defense and in order to do this he must contradict the statements of every witness. The testimony discloses the fact that Cook did not make the assault. Here an attack was made on the testimony in regard to the threats Cook was said to have made against Warden, and it was claimed it was conflicting. The defense tried to prove that Cook was a bad, dangerous man.

From the counsels and Mr McCord's argument the court adjourned until 1.30 in the afternoon.

When the court reconvened, Mr. Stout, junior counsel for Warden, began his argument before the jury. He opened his remarks by defining a plea of self defense. He asked no prejudice verdict at the hands of the jury. He wanted a verdict either of guilty or for acquittal. He argued that Warden either went into Cook's restaurant and killed Cook with malice aforethought or did the deed in self defense. He asked the jury if they should find the prisoner looked like a man having murder in his heart and spoke of the previous good character borne by the defendant. He admitted that the evidence showed that Warden did drink the night before and even the morning of the killing, but that constituted no crime. The defense was willing to allow the case to rest upon the testimony of one of the witnesses for the prosecution, Mr McIntosh. He referred to a plat of the building occupied by Cook's restaurant and demonstrated the impossibility of Warden's committing an assault on Cook. He admitted that the defendant called Cook a "stinker," but denied that the evidence showed that he called him anything else. The term "stinker" may have been repeated, but even that, according to the instructions of the court, did not justify Phillip Cook in making an assault. He admitted that it was barely possible that the defendant struck Cook when he saw him advancing. He showed by the plat that the saloon was entirely hemmed in between the tables and could not possibly escape Cook, so he drew his revolver and struck him on the head with it. If Warden intended to kill Cook, why did he not shoot him at once instead of waiting until Cook had a grip like death on his throat? The defendant was not nearly as large or powerful a man as Cook, in addition to one of his arms being permanently disabled. This evidence in regard to the disability was not disputed by the prosecution. He sympathized with Mrs Cook, who was a most exemplary woman, about whose name not a word of ill could be said, but she would not feel any bitter were the jury to find a verdict that would deprive the prisoner of his life. He next disputed the testimony in regard to the defendant's calling Murray a liar. Also called attention to the positions of Cook and Warden during the scuffle and when the fatal shot was fired, and read from the instructions of the court the portion relating to self defense and pointed to the fact of the defendant's being quite useless. He said only when the defendant was being choked to death and imagined Cook was reaching for a fork with which to stab him did he pull the revolver. If Warden believed his life to be in danger, he alone was the judge of his thoughts, and if the jury believed the fear and imagination were honest, then it was self defense, notwithstanding any evidence which showed that there was no real danger. The reputation of Cook was always bad, and the witnesses who testified to his character did not live continuously at Buena Vista and therefore were not intimately acquainted with Cook. All of them admitted that he was known to carry a gun and at times run men out of his place and up the street threatening their lives. He asked the jury to give the prisoner the benefit of every reasonable doubt and pictured his wife and little ones waiting to welcome his return after four years or learn that the jury had decided that he must go to the gallows and his invalid wife must then probably die of a broken heart. He described the faces of his little children welcoming their father on his return or perhaps turned out on the world orphans. The counsel asked the jury to think of a few hours later when they would return home after a couple of days' absence and receive the glad welcomes of their families and then contrast the smiling faces with those of Warden's children should the jury decide to deprive them of a father's love and support. He hoped the jurymen on their return from the jury room would return with light hearts and steps and say they would allow the unfortunate prisoner to return to his family and home.

The latter part of the argument brought tears to the eyes of some of the jurors and all were visibly affected by the sad contrasts.

District Attorney Garrison closed the argument for the prosecution. He knew the defendant a number of years and regretted his misfortune, but the majesty of the law must be vindicated and it became his most unpleasant duty as an officer of the law to aid the jury in arriving at a fair, honorable and just conclusion in this case. He defined the position of the law in such cases and then briefly outlined the case as represented by the prosecution. The plea of self defence was a myth, and it could not be maintained nor sustained. The evidence must turn on the testimony of the witnesses who were present at the time of the killing. He did not care in what portions of the room the several persons

R. [illegible] Manager of the GAZETTE

It is said that W. O. Bradley of Kentucky has refused to accept the Colombian mission lately tendered him by the president. If the report is true it is to be very much regretted. He is an able lawyer and has long been one of the leading lights of the republican party of the south. On different occasions he has been the candidate of his party for governor of Kentucky and United States senator. He was also the favorite candidate of the southern delegation for the vice presidential nomination at Chicago.

The Rhode Island legislature has taken four ballots for a United States senator to succeed Mr Chace without result. The two leading candidates are Mr. Dixon and ex Governor Wetmore, both of whom are able men, and either of them would probably satisfactorily represent the State. The democrats are casting their ballots solidly for General Olney Arnold, but as they are in the minority the vote is simply a compliment. The legislature has adjourned to meet next Tuesday, when the balloting will be continued.

One of the [illegible] remarkable cases on record is reported from Georgia. The legislature in that state appropriated $1,000,000 a year or two ago for the erection of a capitol building. The latter has been completed and has been declared by the board appointed to examine it up to the contract in every detail. The fact that the contract for building a state capitol has been carried out is itself startling, but when to this is added the announcement that $18,43 has been returned to the state treasury as the difference between the actual cost of the building and the amount of the original appropriation, the statement is almost incredible. It is evident that honest people engage in the work of capitol building in Georgia.

The French ministry are going to arrest and try Boulanger on a charge amounting to high treason. The ministry could scarcely commit a graver error. Whatever may be the outcome of such a trial it cannot hurt Boulanger. His followers, and the late election proved him to have 245,000 in Paris alone, will regard this trial as a persecution and a direct affront to universal suffrage. The French government declare that Boulangism is a menace to the safety of the republic. Admitting that it is, it will not make Boulangism any less dangerous to make a martyr out of its leader. Whether General Boulanger is acquitted or convicted he will come out as a martyr, and as such his influence will be far greater and his followers far more ardent than ever.

In President Harrison's territorial appointments he has followed a sound policy. The Chicago platform was emphatic in its declaration that residence in a territory shall be a prime qualification for holding office in that territory and the president has in making his appointments strictly adhered to the platform. For many years it has been the custom to use the territories as a dumping ground for disreputable adherents of the party in power. Parties have made pledges with regard to this matter in previous campaigns but the pledges have invariably been violated. The platform on which Mr Cleveland was elected contained a most distinct promise with regard to the filling of territorial offices from the citizens of the territories, but the pledge was not regarded. President Harrison however has, in accordance with his party's promise, followed a home rule policy and it is a sound one. It is eminently proper and inherently right that the men who govern the territories shall understand the people, be familiar with their needs and a sharer in their prosperity. It is very convenient to reward a New York politician for his labors, in a certain ward, for party success by giving him a territorial office but it offends every sense of right and justice.

The claim is made by the friends of W. R. Leeds, who is Senator Quay's candidate for the Philadelphia postoffice, that Mr John Field, who is believed to be Postmaster General Wanamaker's choice for the place, is not a republican. This claim is untrue. Mr. Field has been a leading member of the republican party since General John C. Fremont was its standard bearer, and Mr. Field, whose word is unimpeachable, says that he has voted for every state and national candidate of his party since that time. The reason that Mr Field is accused of not being a good republican is because he refused to bring national questions into the city elections of Philadelphia on several occasions. On one of these occasions, W. R. Leeds was the candidate of the republican party put in nomination by a packed convention which represented only the very worst element of the party. Mr Field, with several thousand other republicans of Philadelphia, found that they could not conscientiously vote for Mr Leeds and they cut him. This is why Mr Field is called a "mugwump and a bolter." And he and his associates may be proud of the title, for it was them who prevented the election of Leeds and placed in the mayor's chair Charles H. Kemble, who has given to Philadelphia the best administration of the affairs of that office it has ever had.

Big Insurance Case

JERSEY CITY, April 4.—Bernard Blum, the leader of a gang of fire bugs who have been fleecing insurance companies was arrested in this city to-day. The method of the gang was to rent a store [illegible] and when preparations were made for the incendiary blaze a lamp would be broken. Near the lamp were placed blankets filled with benzine, and around the blankets was a circle of gun powder. A slow fuse was then ignited the powder which exploded the blankets and, like a flash, the place would be a blaze, leaving no trace of an incendiary work except the broken lamp which deceived the insurance people. The principals of the store would be at some festive gathering at the home of one of the other conspirators. They couldn't thus prove an alibi. Blum was at least suspected and between his [illegible] were found 22 blankets. The gang are matchless and baffled the Chicago Board.

Horsestealing by Wholesale

CHICAGO, April 4.—Referring to the Denver dispatch about the arrest of Kinney and Larkins, supposed to be horse thieves, the Times will say: During the last two days a number of valuable horses and buggies have been stolen and Detectives Morgan and Boyd of the city detective department were detailed to work it up as it was believed that a gang was systematically working Chicago in the horse flesh line. Jas A. Miller, the roofer at No 129 South Clinton street, lost a $300 horse and a fine $200 buggy early last week. This was followed by other losses, Schoenhofer the brewer losing a $300 driving horse, and a $175 buggy. Oliver Sollett the contractor of No 159 La Salle street lost a $250 driving horse and a $150 buggy. George Swingforth, the flour and feed dealer of No. 317 West Lake street, lost a $225 horse and a $200 buggy, and Mr. Ketchum, the lumber dealer, lost a $300 fast stepper and a $125 buggy. These cases the detectives took in hand. They found that Robert Stevenson, of No 1027 Indiana avenue had clipped a number of horses answering the descriptions of the stolen animals the day after they were stolen. The horses were kept very close and blanketed. They also learned that they were kept by Barney Kinney and Andy Larkins. By the time these facts were ascertained the detectives found out that these same parties had been extensive shippers of horses and that they had just shipped the animals reported above to Denver. They knew the men and that they had no money to buy horses and that they were not acting as agents for any dealers. These points were all established by Wednesday and on the strength of these facts Chief of Police Hubbard sent the telegram and Officer Boyd left Wednesday night to get the prisoners. The $25,000 worth of stolen Kentucky horses said to be in the possession of Kinney and Larkins are not known by Detectives Morgan and Boyd, but the former says it will only confirm their opinion that the men are either connected with an extensive gang or are working a large game themselves.

Prominent Clergyman Suicides

LONDON, April 4.—Rev. Charles Spurgeon Hurd, lately of the Palmerston Unitarian chapel, Boston, committed suicide by taking opium on Sunday. Last week Hurd wrote to Rev. Stafford Brooke asking pecuniary assistance, which the latter promised. At the inquest yesterday the letter from Hurd to Brooke was read. It concludes: "The sole way by which I can escape my difficulties is through the gates of death. I am the most unlucky mortal on earth. I leave my body to the medical school for dissection. The jury returned a verdict of insanity and Brooke will not allow the body to be dissected. He will defray the expenses of burial.

THE BADGERS.

Yesterday was Wisconsin day in Colorado Springs and last night the Badgers were out in full force. Several weeks ago arrangements were made for a grand reunion of former residents of the state of Wisconsin, now residing in this city. Last night was settled upon as the time, and in response to invitations there was a large gathering at Weber's hall where the opening exercises began. There was upwards of two hundred persons present, representing the best class of citizens in Colorado Springs. There was one of the jolliest times ever known in Colorado Springs. Many old friendships were revived and some new ones formed. Anecdotes and stories were the order of the evening, and if there were any present who did not thoroughly enjoy their lives they succeeded in hiding it.

About half past eight o'clock Mr. E. G. Perkins called the meeting to order, and during the evening conducted the exercises. Professor Durgin's orchestra played several selections, and Major Otto Reinick made a few remarks. He had lived in Wisconsin from 1855 to 1861, and remembered well seeing white covered wagons leaving the state in 1859 bound for Pike's Peak. He enlisted in a Wisconsin regiment during the war and served four years in it. He had a good word to say for the people, brave men who emigrated from that state.

Miss Rose Barnes sang "Tell Me Bonny Boy, Do," very sweetly, and Mr. M. Bolton followed in a few remarks that were very witty and were well received. He believed that a stranger among all the crowd present would have to decide that all the nice people who [illegible] came to Colorado Springs were Wisconsin people. Wisconsin people were nice [illegible] the positions of trust that [illegible] Wisconsin people in [illegible] matters. It had been a [illegible] man who built the Colorado Midland road, etc. There was no state that so called Wisconsin in scenery but Colorado. He was led to ask the question, if Wisconsin is such a fine state why were they all here. The speaker brought greeting from the city of beer and pretzels and in a few words described the greatness of the city of Milwaukee.

Prof. A. C. Pearson, then played a piano solo and was followed by Col. H. Baron in a short address. He had arrived in Wisconsin in 1849 and stopped at Janesville, where he worked in a printing office. He was at his first work there. While living in Janesville he found all the [illegible] Mr. A. L. Lewis [illegible] Mr. D. D. [illegible] Mr. H. B. [illegible] and Mr. A. J. Hayes. [illegible] was given to Mr. A. L. Lewis, who was called upon to the Badger state. [illegible] was responded to by Mr. A. L. Lewis, Mr. M. P. Barnes, Mr. [illegible], Mr. J. M. Bates, Mr. [illegible] and Dr. L. [illegible]. At the close of the exercises Mr. [illegible] sang "Home, Sweet Home," during which the company adjourned to supper, after which dancing was indulged in.

Card of Thanks.

I take this means of heartily thanking the city teachers for their beautiful and costly gift left at my house last Friday evening, and also for the valuable work in charge of my [illegible]. It is a source of great satisfaction to me to know that my work during the past seven years has been so highly appreciated by the pupils, patrons and teachers of the city schools. Yours in grateful remembrance.

F. L. BYINGTON.

The regular annual parade and inspection of the fire department will take place this afternoon at 2 o'clock. All firemen are requested to appear at the city hall in full uniform. Per order

CHARLES B. FERRIS,
Chief Fire Department.

The grand jury appeared at the district court yesterday and rendered a report on the condition of the county jail. The report was very complimentary to the manner in which Sheriff Jackson conducts it. The jury also examined several large buildings in the city which are being built in violation of law. Recommendations were made which the court promised would be attended to in proper manner. The report of the jury on the county treasurer's report was received and placed on file. There being no further business before the grand jury, they were discharged. The Dodson case was postponed until 9 o'clock this morning, and witnesses in the case of the People vs. Foley were notified to appear to-morrow morning. The [illegible] in the cases of the People vs. Jebe et al, and the People vs. John McCoombs entered into their own recognizance for their appearance at the special term of court beginning June 10.

"CANON CITY, June 4th, 1888.

"Mr. M.—

"The furniture you polished so beautifully for me still retains all of its first freshness, and I don't think it will need a touch from you on your return. Your polish is the only preparation of the kind that does not either catch the dust or lose its lustre in a few days. I shall never be without a bottle of it in my house as long as it can be purchased.

"MRS. THOMAS MARVIN."

The foreman of Hook and Ladder company, No. 1, Mr. J. F. Burns, requests all members of the company to appear at the city hall at 2 o'clock sharp to-day, for the purpose of inspection and parade.

NEWSPAPER ARCHIVE®

THE GAZETTE.

FRIDAY, APRIL 5, 1889.

The Rock Island road will sell tickets to Denver and return on the 6th, good until the 11th, for one fare for the round trip.

The board of county commissioners were in session yesterday morning allowing bills, and in the afternoon went up the Ute pass to examine some new roads.

It is requested that superintendents and secretaries of Sunday schools in El Paso county send their names and addresses to the county secretary, immediately, as he wishes to communicate with them at once. Address A. H. Copeman, secretary.

At the meeting of the B. F. Crowell Hose company last night the company decided to place the name of C. B. Ferrin in nomination for re-election to the office of chief of the fire department. Mr. M. J. Wilson, of the Hook and Ladder company, was selected for first assistant.

Mr. Emery P. Moon, of Hosted, has furnished us the following record of the weather for the week ending April 3rd, 1889: Highest temperature, 71 on the 3rd, lowest temperature 29 on the 25th and 30th; weekly mean temperature 42.14. Prevailing direction of the wind, south four days, varying two days, north one day.

Among the graduates of the department of dentistry of the Denver university, on Wednesday, were Mr. Alexander B. Baker, son of Captain Seth Baker, and Mrs. Anna Chamberlain, of this city. President Slocum, of Colorado college, delivered the address to the graduating class, his subject being, "Manifestation and Development of the Creative Principle."

Mrs. Elizabeth M. McIntosh died at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. T. E. Johnston, yesterday morning, at 8.15 o'clock, aged 72 years. Mrs. McIntosh, it will be remembered, fell and broke her leg a week ago, and her death was the result of the shock. Up to the day of the accident she had always been very active for a person of her years, and had a large circle of friends and acquaintances. The funeral will occur at 2 o'clock to day from the residence, 650 East Kiowa street.

The annual parade and inspection of the fire department will occur to-day. All firemen are urged to be present and participate. The parade will be headed by a platoon of police, and the city council in carriages. The route will form on Nevada avenue, right-flank resting on Huerfano street. Line of march will be south on Nevada avenue to Cucharras street, west on Cucharras street to Tejon street, north on Tejon street to Platte avenue, east on Platte avenue to Nevada avenue, south on Nevada avenue to Pike's Peak avenue, west on Pike's Peak avenue to the Midland block where department will be inspected by the city council.

The St. Louis Globe-Democrat has the following to say about "The Corner Grocery," which will be produced at the opera house next Monday evening. "People laughed until they cried at the Standard last night. The upper part of the house was jammed, and the downstairs crowd was large. 'The Corner Grocery,' an uproarious comedy, with an occasional touch of nature and a pathos that [illegible] was greeted with tumultuous manifestations of approval. The leading role, Daddy Nolan, is portrayed by Mr. Griffin, and, with the assistance of a pleasing company, an audience is regaled with a constant round of amusement. A very pretty picture of domestic life is presented in the play, and there is an appeal not only to the risibles, and little tender episodes check the laughter of the audience, and remind them that there is a serious side even to the happiest and most mirthful souls."

Martin Gillum, a section man on the D. & R. G. railroad was killed yesterday morning about 11 o'clock, two miles below town, by getting in front of special engine No. 96, going south. He was a member of James Tolbert's section gang and they were working along the line of the double track when the regular freight train going north passed along. All of the men but Gillum and one other got off of the tracks entirely, but they stayed on the second track. Just at that time the special came down from the north, and turning a sharp curve was onto them in a moment. Gillum's companion had time to jump and called to him but the noise from the freight evidently prevented him from hearing. The engineer of the special blew his whistle and the section men tried to warn him but could not do so. Gillum was terribly mangled. The remains were brought to this city immediately by the special train and taken to Coroner Davis' undertaking rooms. An inquest will be held at 9 o'clock this morning. Gillum was about 52 years of age, and so far as known, without a family. He was a member of Upton Post No. 9, G. A. R., of Pueblo, and will probably be buried by them.
